

Why should digital television suddenly give even more rights to the broadcasters than they already have? Speaking as one who hasn't recorded anything off the air in about ten years, this is absurd. If they don't want people to record anything, then they shouldn't broadcast.